Pamo is a mobile app built to make sharing surplus food easier and faster, helping reduce waste, support people in need, and strengthen community connections.

Founded in 2024, Pamo began as a small idea to tackle the huge problem of food waste through everyday sharing. What started with a few neighbors posting extra food soon grew into a community-powered movement. Today, thousands of people use Pamo every day to share, receive, and prevent good food from going to waste.

Every year, tons of perfectly good food are thrown away — while many still face food insecurity. Pamo makes it easy to turn that surplus into shared support, so nothing goes to waste and no one is left behind.

Together, we're building a future where sharing what we have is simple, local, and part of everyday life.
